CHILDREN ENTERTAINED AT SANDSTROM HOME

Twenty children of the Woman's Christian Association were entertained at the home of their Junior supervisor, Mrs. Anna Sandstrom, 322 El Dorado avenue, Thursday afternoon.

Games furnished entertainment after which refreshments were served and gifts were presented with a popcorn ball to each child.

Assisting Mrs. Sandstrom in entertaining were Mesdames May Howe, Flora Waters, Hattie Schuch, Miss Betty Wright and Miss Audrey Stanley.

WOMAN'S CLUB LUNCHEON, JANUARY 3

Margaret C. Tiffany, educational director of the Merchandise Research Institute, will be the guest speaker at the Torrance Woman's Club meeting in their clubhouse, Wednesday, January 2, at 12:30 p. m. In her lecture Mrs. Tiffany will deal with women as the purchasing agent for the entire family. She will tell how to select colors that harmonize with different personalities. Lines of combining colors and colors to be avoided entirely.

The Christian church ladies' quartet will sing several selections. Members of the group include Mesdames George Elder, Earl Babcock, Leonard Babcock and Sarah Rowell with Mrs. Harry Shaffer, accompanist. Mrs. Ursula Kasselman will give several readings.

As this is the first meeting of the year 1935, all members are asked to make a special effort to attend. Make reservations with Mrs. Ila Gilbert, phone 420.

ATTENDS RACES CHRISTMAS DAY

Mrs. Florence Welch, 724 Border avenue, attended the races at the Santa Anita race track Christmas Day.

WEDDING AT RICHHART HOME

Miss Aida May O'Connell, niece of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Richhart, 1424 218th street, was married to Clifford Lyle Ventura, of Long Beach, Christmas Day, at the Richhart home. Rev. B. H. Linnefelter performed the ceremony at 11:00 a. m.

Twenty-two persons attended the ceremony and the turkey dinner, which was served at noon. The young couple received many lovely wedding gifts which they carried to their newly furnished home, 710 West Broadway, Long Beach.

RELIEF CORPS INITIATES TWO NEW MEMBERS

Mrs. Stella Anderson of Compton and Mrs. Bertha Stevenson were initiated into the Torrance Relief Corps at the meeting of that group in Torrance Social hall, Thursday evening. Mrs. Gladys McDonald, secretary of the state organization, and Mr. and Mrs. Baker, of Orange, were special guests.

The Christmas party which followed the meeting was a lovely affair. Thirty-five members exchanged gifts and joined in the Yuletide celebration.

PARIS. (U.P.)—Among the unusual winter sports suits designed in Paris is one from Anny Blatt called "226." The trousers are of navy blue waterproof gabardine, the vest in natural camel-hair hand-knitted wool. This is worn over a combination blouse in navy blue jersey. The bonnet, gloves and stockings are in natural and navy turtlet and jersey.

"27" is a ski suit by Dikusha gloves and stockings are in white with waistcoat and trousers in bottle green Ondalex. The cap, iastex and the belt and buttons are of black box-calf. The novelty of the cap is that it covers the head, ears and neck and sometimes in a sort of cape that caps the shoulders and crosses the breast in a series of scallops. The glove cuffs turn back from the elbow with the same scallop.

Henry Creed's contribution to skiing outfits is in navy blue fine ribbed velvet. Jodhpurs fastened with a zip and a beret and scarf in green and red plaid wool. The beret has a large pom-pom right in the middle and is perched on the head like a small colie hat.

Irmone does a two-piece suit for skating; jacket and skirt in hand crocheted brushed up wool in dark gray. The bonnet, gloves and socks are in red wool tricet. The socks have large turn-down cuffs and are worn over fine white wool stockings.
